The HISTORY OF NORTHEAST MISSOURI has several pages on Pike Co., MO that are filled with genealogical information on our early settlers. We will run a few of these in our next few issues of the Piker, for those who do not have access to this book.

NOT THE HOME OF INDIANS

Let us here correct an impression that almost universally prevails,—that this and contiguous territory were ever the real homes of the Indians, if they can be said to have had homes. It was their hunting ground instead and perchance their battle ground in conflicts between the tribes. The Sacs, Foxes, and other tribes lived to the north on Rock river in the Selkirk regions, on both sides of the river. Black Hawk, Keokuk, and other famous chiefs lived there, while to the south, near St. Louis, and on the Missouri river lived the Winnebagos, Osages and other tribes. But they had no homes in Pike. Here they hunted buffalo, deer and bear for food and the skins of which they bartered at the trading posts or used for clothing. They hunted other game, too, such as wolves, panther, elk and turkey. The prairies were the feeding places for the buffalo and their trails going to and from water courses are yet to be seen in various places, one distinct, one two miles northwest of Bowling Green. For centuries perhaps countless thousands of buffalo would go in herds and in course of time made deep road beds from two to six feet deep. The graves that have been found in a number of places, especially along the bluffs and water courses, belonged to previous races, as evidenced by the method of burial and by the contents buried with the bodies.

As the whites increased, the Indians became less frequently seen, although as late as 1856 Indians were seen coming single file into town, having their bows and arrows. They would shoot at coins set up in split sticks. Persons still live who saw them coming into Louisiana bringing nuts, game and trinkets, and they always walked single file, the squaws carrying the burdens. I started to school one morning in 1856. The school house was on the opposite side of the village from my home. The teacher was A. P. Rodgers, who still lives in Bowling Green. I did not know Indians were near and as I always had great fear of them, I fled, not home, for they were on that side, but to the school house. I was followed by a big buck, the biggest man I ever saw. I ran inside and closed the door. He followed and bolted in without ceremony and laughingly pointed me out to the teacher and said "him big fraid." Full fifty years passed when a few years ago I took coach at Yankton, South Dakota, to go out near the Rosebud reservation. I was on a big land deal, by which I was to get the hotel, store, mill and most of the little town. The deal had been worked up by letters to near the closing and I began to count my gains. We reached the place about nightfall and I, not knowing Indians were near, was greeted by a big Sioux about four times bigger than the one I saw when a boy. His "how-how" and the sight of hundreds of tepees on the hillside brought back that same old tremble of a half-century before, with added interest.

THE FIRST WHITE SETTLER

In the last days of December, 1790, a young man lacking a few months of his majority, bade his parents goodbye, seated himself in a little boat and started from the Falls of the Ohio, Louisville, Kentucky, and went down the Ohio river. His father sixteen years before had come from Fairfax, Virginia, and built the first house at Louisville. He went up the Mississippi river and landed at Ste. Genevieve, Missouri, January 1, 1791. That old French town for a week had been aglow with Christmas festivities. This unostentatious young man was destined to play a goodly part in starting a westward trend. He was a practical dreamer. More than a hundred years before that time his Huguenot ancestors had been driven from France because of their Protestantism. Three hundred years previously his forefathers had left Spain, near Biscay Bay, for France, that they might earn a more reputable living than by piracy and robbery, then practiced in that mountainous country. After a few days at Ste. Genevieve and Mine LaMotte, thirty-five miles inland, he went on up the river to St. Louis, a trading post containing about five hundred people, mostly French. From there he resumed the journey up the river to Fort Madison, stopping off in Pike county, where Louisiana now is. Returning, he made St. Louis his home for twenty-seven years or until March, 1818. He made frequent trips to the "upper country" and was frequently in Pike. It is said that he knew every man, woman and child in the Missouri territory when the land was purchased. The news of the transfer of ownership reached St. Louis March 10, 1804. He and John Allen, his old friend, were chosen to make the transfer of flags. That evening the Stars and Stripes were hoisted and the next morning the foreign flag was lowered. St. Louis then contained 825 people, all French except about 150. It was almost exactly one-half as large as Bowling Green is today. The name of John Walter Basye is in the list. That year a daughter was born to his wife and she was named Louisiana.

When he moved to Pike county in 1818, John E. Allen, his friend's son, accompanied him. Many others were attracted by the opportunities in Pike county. The records of St. Louis show several of his clearing out sales of land, preparing to take his permanent abode elsewhere. He entered the southwest quarter, section 13, township 54, range 2, near Louisiana, and at the same time the land where Bowling Green now stands. Louisiana, plat filed December 10, 1819, but was laid out in the spring of 1818. At the suggestion of John E. Allen, his friend's son, the town was named Louisiana, for the rollicking girl born at the time of the transfer of flags at St. Louis. The old family Bible bears out the date, and the facts given by John C. Basye, then seven years old, Joseph J. Basye, twenty years old, and Ann Watson, a daughter of David Watson, all of whom were present.

The statement sometimes made that the town was named for Lucinda Walker is not correct. She had married John Venable nearly a year before and had moved away. Besides the names are not alike.

EARLY SETTLERS

Judge T. J. C. Fagg says that in the year 1800, James Burns, of Kentucky, effected the first temporary settlement of what is now Pike county, at or near the present site of Clarksville. He returned to

THE SUNNY SIDE OF GENEALOGY

RESEARCH IN RHYME

I started out calmly tracing my tree
To find, if I could, the makings of me.
And all that I had was great grandfather's name,
Not knowing his wife or from which way he came.

I chased him across a long line of states,
And came up with pages and pages of dates.
When all put together it made me forlorn,
I'd proved poor great grandpa had never been born.

One day I was sure the truth I had found,
Determined to turn this whole thing upside down.
I looked up the records of one Uncle John,
But found the old man to be younger than son.

Then when my hopes were fast growing dim,
I came across records that must have been him.
The facts I collected then made me quite sad,
Dear old Great Grandfather was never a dad.

I think maybe someone is pulling my leg,
I'm not at all sure I wasn't hatched from an egg.
After hundreds of dollars I've spent on my tree,
I can't help but wonder if I'm really me.

BENJAMIN F. ESTES, a successful farmer and stock-grower in the vicinity of Clarksville, Missouri, Benjamin Franklin Estes is descended from pioneer ancestry of Pike county. He was born in Buffalo township, May 2, 1859, and is a son of Benjamin Caswell Estes, who passed away in this section of the state on February 24, 1861. The grandfather of the subject of this review was James Estes, born near Abington, Washington county, Virginia. June 20, 1780, of ancestry from Essex, England. James Estes drifted west as a young man and for a time resided in Nashville, Tennessee,, he later moved to Kentucky, where in 1827, he married Miss Martha Schooler. To this union were born the following children: Benjamin Caswell, William H. and Martha. Under General Shelby, James Estes served in the Indian war against old Tecumeseh and he served as a gallant and faithful soldier in the war of 1812, in which he participated in the engagements of Malden and in the battle on Lake Erie, under Commodore Perry. Benjamin Caswell Estes was twice married, his first union having been to Minerva Wamsley. After her death, he married Elizabeth, a daughter of Robert Estes, distant kin.. To the latter union Benjamin F. and Newton Caswell were born, Newton Caswell Estes was a prosperous farmer during the entire period of his active career and he died March 17, 1911, unmarried. Robert Estes, maternal grandfather of Benjamin F. Estes, was born in Virginia, immigrated west as a youth and after his marriage to Betsy Griffith, in Kentucky, came to Pike county, Missouri.

Benjamin F. Estes received his education in the district schools of Pike County. Until 1900, he remained on the family farm where he was born. He then purchased a portion of the Brown tract, near Aberdeen, this place being known as Brookside Farm, a stock and grain farm which Mr. Estes still operates.

Mr. Estes became interested in the banking business and took over a share of the stock issue and was made president of the Farmers' Bank of Eolia. In politics, he is a democrat.

On October 26, 1899, Mr. Estes was married to Miss Viorginia Moore, a daughter of Albert Moore. She died in 1906, leaving a daughter, Mary E., born March 17, 1902. April 6, 1910, Mr. Estes married Miss Nonie Palmer, a daughter of J.W.M. Palmer, of Lincoln county. Mr. Palmer came to Missouri from Kentucky and first married Annie Harvey, who bore him a daughter, Virginia Lee, now the wife of Richard L. Dawson, a representative from Pike county, Missouri. His second wife was Alice Meriwether Edwards, a daughter of Capt. Pleasant Carr Waller Edwards, a pioneer of Pike county; Mrs Estes was the only child born to this union. For his third wife, Mr. Palmer married Mrs. Margaret Woodson, a daughter of Joseph Roberts. Their children are; Joseph Roberts, a lawyer in Elsberry, Missouri; and Elizabeth Roberts, wife of C. E. Mayhall, of Laddonia. Mrs. Estes is descended from Revolutionary stock through John Edwards, her great-great-grandfather, who was a soldier in the war for independence.

CHRISTMAS is the season when you buy this year's gifts with next year's money.

If the world is getting smaller,
how come they keep raising the postal rates?

. . . It's Still Colquhoun !

Down through the ages, spelling was left mainly to the discretion of the person writing and most record keepers spelled the names to their own pronunciation. The above list, although started out correctly or nearly correct in the Gaelic tongue, is recorded variations in the spelling of our family name. Most of you have probably already found new variations on your recent mail or voter list. As spelling becomes more of a problem each day, we may live to see just as many more new spellings as in the list above.

WILLIAM CYRUS CRAIG

Foremost in the ranks of the prominent and prosperous agriculturists of Pike county, who by indefatigable perseverance and untiring energy have hewed their way onward and upward, stands William Cyrus Craig, whose handsome, well cultivated farm is located about ten miles southeast of Vandalia. Mr. Craig comes of a family of agriculturists, and is in the third generation of the name to carry on operations in northeastern Missouri. His grandfather, Thomas Craig, was born in Kentucky about 1790, and came to the state of Mo. in 1829, settling on land in Indaina township, Pike Co. about one and one-half miles north of the farm of William C. Craig. On this land, which he secured from the government, he spent the remainder of his life, and there died in 1846. While still a resident of Kentucky, he married Rachel Smith, and they had a family of eight children, namely: John T., William, Paulina, Virginia, Isabelle, Permelia and two who died in infancy. Mr. Craig was a staunch Whig in his political views, and with his wife and children, attended the Methodist church.

John T. Craig was born in 1829, in Kentucky, and was six weeks of age when he was brought by his parents to Pike county, Missouri. Educated in the district schools, he was reared to the vocation of a farmer, and spent the rest of his life in tilling the soil of Pike county. In politics he was a Republican and like his father was a faithful Methodist in his religious faith. He was married 1854, in Pike county to Miss Elizabeth McDonald, who was born in 1834, the daughter of Rev. Cyrus McDonald, an early Presbyterian preacher of Pike County. John T. Craig died on the 18th of August, 1909 and his wife passed away September 2, 1912. During the last few years of their lives they made their home with their son, William C. Craig, and there their deaths occurred. John T. and Elizabeth Craig had a family of eight children: William Cyrus, Benjamin, John Silas, Millie, Amanda, Elizabeth and Belle. During the Civil war, John T. Craig served in a local company of the Missouri State Militia.

William Cyrus Craig was born November 3, 1855, on his father's farm in Pike county, and there secured his education in the district schools. General farming has claimed his attention throughout his career, and his ventures have proven successful, as at this time, with his son-in-law, he owns some 460 acres of land in Pike county. His land is located about ten miles southeast of Vandalia. Mr. Craig is an honorable, upright man, possessed of good business qualifications, and as a citizen his character is above reproach. He is a Republican in his political views. With Mrs. Craig and their children, he attends the Methodist church.

On March 28, 1878, Mr. Craig was married to Miss Ann C. Smith, who was born December 19, 1862, in Pike county, on what is now a part of her husband's farm, daughter of Chester and Juliette (Butler) Smith. They have had six children, as follows: Julia, who married Joseph Rutherford, and died August 2, 1892, Barbara, who married W.L. Stevens, and lives in Pike county; Anne, who married Grover Stuart and resides in Pike Co.; Artie, who makes her home with her parents; and John and Minnie who died in infancy.
